

Nabila Marzouk has a wealth of experience working in business and non for profit sector in Australia and overseas. Academically, Nabila holds a Bachelor of Arts in International Relations and Middle Eastern Studies from Grinnell College, Iowa in USA. She also holds an Associate Degree in English Language and Literature from Mohammed V University, Rabat Morocco.

Since arriving to Australia in 2011, Nabila has been working in the community sector. Having lived in various developing and developed countries, Nabila brings a unique perspective to Community Development, social inclusion, diversity and multiculturalism.

Skilled in non for profit organisations, management of community programs and projects, and partnership development, Nabila brings exceptional engagement skills especially to CALD communities. She has a special interest in the notion of belonging for indigenous and CALD communities. Currently, Nabila Marzouk is undertaking a Master Degree by research at Victoria University on the topic of belonging for Arab migrant women in Australia.

Nabila also volunteers in various organisations and associations in South East Melbourne.

She is one of the founders of Multicultural Muslim Women's Network (MMWN), an informal network that brings together Muslim women's groups in South East Melbourne. She is also a Vice Chairperson of Women's Association South East Melbourne Australia (WASEMA), and plays a leadership role within the association.

Nabila is fluent in Arabic, French and English.